Not a Single Case of Failure Has Yet Been Reported.

It Is Guaranteed to Cure in Every Case.

In all former attempts to cure the habit of using tobacco it has been treated only as a filthy habit which only needed to have a substitute not quite so filthy to be used in its stead. All such efforts were failideas.

The truth is that the demand for tobacco is a disease, and if cured it must be by correcting and removing the diseased conditions. And to do this successfully the true pathology of the disease must be under-

EXHIBIT OF FINE CEDAR FROM THE

Difference Between It and that Which Grows in This Locality-A Pes-tiferous Insect.

WASHINGTON FORESTS.

Robert Heller, a contractor of this city, recently returned from the far Northwest, has had on exhibition at the Builders' Exchange for the last few days samples of Washington timber which have proved curiosities to the people of this city. Mr. Heller brought with him a carload of Washington lumber, and most of it has been placed on the sidewalk in front of the exchange, where it has been viewed by thousands of people. Ten large boards of cedar. each thirty-two feet long, thirty inches wide and one and one-half inch thick, have atintracted the most attention. The cedar which grows in this locality is knotty and dwarfed, and climatic changes have caused ducts in the center of most of the trees, making the wood of little service for building purposes. Mr. Heller says the cedar in Washington matures fully, as the samples which he brought home indicate. These samples are free from knots, and, consequently, valuable for building purposes. Mr. Heller has also on exhibition boards made of fir, which are sixteen feet long, forty-five inches wide and two inches thick. The boards were originally thirty-two feet long. but they had to be sawed in order to get them in a car. This wood possesses the strength of oak, yet is lighter than white pine. The wood is valuable for ship building and car building. Mr. Heller has samples of Washington spruce, which is used extensively in the West for finishing work. He says the magnitude of the timber land of the Northwest cannot be understood by people who have lived all their lives in the Eastern States. The timber grows dense

"Do you think the supply is inexhaustible?" was asked. 'Not by a good deal," replied Mr. Heller. "They are cutting down the timber in a way that amounts to a slaughter. There is a great deal of it there; in fact, at present the timber is the wealth of Washington exceeds that of the lumber consin and Michigan. At Port Blakely, on Puget sound, one company is cutting 650,000 feet of lumber a day. The company owns the mills, the stores and all the houses of ting lumber. The logs are rolled to the saws and they never stop moving until, as boards, they are stored away in the ships waiting for the lumber. The latter is shipped south, much of it going to Central brought home with him are not extraordinary pieces, but they represent the characf the timber being cut, and further north, in British Columbia, the timber is larger and better than that of Washington State. He has been exhibiting a taredo-eaten section of Douglass fir. Most of the builders here have seen nothing like it. but such results are every-day observations to people living near salt water. The section was cut from a pile driven in Puget sound two years ago. In that short time it has been riddled by the destructive little worms until it resembles a honey-comb. The worms have made passages through the section from all directions. It is noticed that in no case has one worm invaded the territory of another. Mr. Heller says the worms are smaller than the Hoosier grubworm, but they have a shell like an auger on their heads, with which they bore their way through the wood. He says even Washington wood is not proof against these worms when it is placed in salt water. Harry Adams, in looking at the wormeaten section, wondered if the blocks in the Meridian-street pavement had any such worms at work within them, and he offered some speculation as to the result if the worms could get a start there.

Complimentary to Rev. Mr. Eilison. The Terre Haute Express, in commenting on the address of Rev. D. J. Ellison, pastor of the First Baptist Church of this city, which he delivered before the Baptist State Convention, which convened in Terre Haute the past week, says: "A licing close to the first day's labor was the address of Rev. D. J. Ellison, of Indianapolis, on 'The Inspira-tion of the Scriptures.' Mr. Ellison is a man of brilliant mind, and during his address the older ministers leaned forward in their seats in fapt attention. Scarcely a person moved in his seat while Mr. Ellison was speaking, but when he had finished there was a hum of voices in all parts of the room and more than one gray-haired minister was heard to remark, 'The best I eyer heard.' Mr. Ellison's address was quite long and interspersed with a number of beautiful

TRIED TO HANG HER

Says He Took Her Down Into a Cellar and Dug a Grave-Jones

In the case of Johnston Wallace against Isabella Wallace for divorce, filed several days ago, the defendant has filed a cross complaint in which she makes some very serious allegations. She enters a general denial to the complaint of the plaintiff, and asks for the custody of the children, claiming that the plaintiff is not a fit person to have charge of them. She alleges that Wallace has real estate worth $5,000, and asks for proper alimony. The plaintiff has kicked and beaten the defendant numerous times, it is alleged. It is also claimed that the vilest of language has been used by the plaintiff to Mrs. Wallace. In the spring of 1894, the complaint alleges, Wallace put a rops around Mrs. Wallace's neck and hung her to the transom of a door until she was almost dead from choking. In the fall of 1894 he followed this up with a threat to kill her, so it is alleged, and took her into the cellar of the house and tied her fast. She claims he then proceeded, after the fashion of Holmes, to dig a grave ures, because they were based on false in the cellar, and told her he intended to kill her and bury her in it. After a while she was released The cross complaint alleges that Wallace has falsely accused Mrs. Wallace of infideiity with neighbors and with his own brother, Andrew Wallace. It is alleged that in the fall of 1894 Wallace visited a house of unsavory reputation and took his twelveyear-old boy with him. He made the boy stand outside, while he remained for several lours in the house. The last charge is that Wallace is guilty of stealing, and has taught his son to steal.

The cross complaint was filed by Spaan & McCullough. Henry Spaan says there is nothing in the complaint that cannot be proved, and indicates that there will much sensational testimony in the case. The following divorces were granted yesterday: Pauline King from William King, habitual drunkenness and cruel treatment; Mattie Mack from William Mack, he having been convicted of a serious crime and is now serving a term in the Kentucky penitentiary; Isola Whritridge from William Whritridge, drunkenness and abandonment; Gifford Thompson from Elizabeth Thompabandonment; Ella Baldwin from James Baldwin, abandonment; Maud Johnson from John A. from Joseph West, failure to provide.

Outside Hackmen Complain that He Violates the License Ordinance. William H. Ryan yesterday filed six affidavits against Frank Bird for violating sections 1, 2 and 3 of an ordinance passed in March, 1880. This is the ordinance that provides for a license for hacks. It has always been contended by the transfer companies that this ordinance does not include owners of hacks who have established stables and pay taxes for maintaining their barns and do not use the streets for stands, but is intended to reach the class of men who keep hacks and simply stand them on a street corner waiting for passengers. The transfer companies, it is contended do not use the streets as a place for stand-ing their vehicles and therefore should not pay this license fee. The question has been raised several times in the past.

Matters in Probate.

Maria L. Harlan yesterday qualified as the guardian of John H. Harlan, insane, Ambrose P. Stanton qualified as the administrator of the estate of Artuisa Davis. Bond, $200. James H. Lowes qualified as the guardian of James W. Laird and Helen Laird, minors, with $100 bond. The will of Margaretha Schwartz was filed for probate yesterday. She left all of her property to her husband, Heinrich Schwartz. The will is joint and provides that after the death of husband and wife three of their children shall receive $5 each and the balance of the estate shall be divided between their other children.

Jones Murder Case Evidence.

The Jones murder case is still on trial in the Criminal Court. The taking of evidence for the defense continued yesterday morning and at noon a question arose as to the admissbility of evidence to show that the victim did not die from the effects of the wound, but from the result of unskillful reatment of the case by physicians. This yestion was argued by the attorneys of the case all the afternoon and Judge McCrea will give his opinion to-morrow afternoon. To-morrow morning will be taken up with character witnesses.

Thomas Connolly Released. The bond of Thomas Connolly, who was arrested for striking Aaron Hulin and held on a charge of attempted murder, was yesterday reduced to $250, and he was released. For a time it was thought Hulin would die. It is doubtful, the police think, f a case can be made against Connolly, for it is believed that he acted in self-defense. Hulin is now able to be out, but the blow has affected his speech and he is not yet in condition to appear in court.

THE CHRYSANTHEMUM SHOW. It Will Virtually Be the Reopening of the New Tomlinson Hall.

The ninth annual chrysanthemum show to be given in this city will be opened Tuesday evening, and will continue each afternoon and evening, including Friday night. On Saturday the flowers which were on exhibition will be auctioned off. The preparations for this show have been more extensive than at any previous time, and the results promised are proportionately larger. The entries have been numerous, and the exhibits will be placed in the hall to-morrow and Tuesday. The decorations will begin to-day. Tomlinson Hall, where the exhibition will take place, has recently been redecorated, and this will virtually be its opening. The new decorations of the hall will add beauty to the flower decorations.

The hall will be laid out in the form of a flower garden, with beds and walks. In the center of the hall will be placed four immense vases, each containing one hundred bright chrysanthemum blooms. The beds will be brilliant not only with chrysanthemums, but carnations and roses. A large supply of orchids from Cincinnati and New York will occupy a special booth. The stage will be filled with ferns, moss, palms and other tropical plants. The music will be furnished by the Indianapolis Military Band from behind a huge bank of green plants. A large oil painting of Ningara Falls will occupy a prominent place on the stage. The band will furnish the concerts at night, and the various musical firms of the city have contracted to furnish the afternoon programmes A large number of novelties in chrysanthemums will be on exhibition during the groups of plants will be awarded each day, forty-four of the prizes being awarded on the opening night. There will be special prizes on Thursday for the roses and carure to provide; Elizabeth Rounds from Will-iam Rounds, abandonment; Eleanor West The officers of the Indiana Florists' Association are: W. W. Coles, president, Kokomo; Henry Mitchell, vice president, Marion; R. A. McKeand, secretary, Garfield Park; J. T. Huntington, treasurer, Indianapolis. The committee on premiums is E. G. Hill, Richmond; Fred Dorner, Lafayette, and J. S. Stuart, Anderson. Henry Rieman is super-intendent of the hall; John Hartje inspector of exhibits. The reception committee is A. Wiegand, E. G. Hill, J. S. Stuart, W. Langstaff, F. B. Alley, John Grange, Will Kelley and Fred Huckriede.

SCOPE OF THE CENTENNIAL.

E. B. Martindale's Views Regarding the Proposed Exposition.

E. B. Martindale, of the Centennial Exposition committee, said vesterday, in regard to the scope of the proposed work: "We should celebrate in an appropriate manner the 'Centennial of Indiana.' The State has up to this time spent very little money in advertising to the world her century's development. No State in the Union, and, in fact, no country in the world, has accomplieshed more in a hundred years. Now, in line with the enterprise her people have displayed, the State should make known to the world what has been accom-

"In the line of discovery and invention, more has been accomplished in the past hundred years than was accomplished in the preceding five hundred years. These great discoveries and inventions have been stimulated by our modern expositions. Fulton was regarded as a crank and impoverished himself before he convinced capital that steam could be used in navigation. The congressmen who voted aid to Morse in the construction of a telegraph line from Washington to Baltimore were ridiculed by their constituents and defeated for re-election. The advocates of the expenditure of a half million dollars by the State in making known to the world what the name 'Indiana' stands for will as certainly receive in time the universal indorsement of the people as did Fulton and Morse. "The same genius that has produced great inventions will produce great improvements in the methods of expositions. The most disheartening feature about the holding of such a modern exposition is the great waste of money in the construction of buildings and preparation of exhibits which are valueless after the exposition closes. I maintain that we can so construct and maintain an exposition that this great waste of money will be avoided and that the expenditure will be in the nature of a profitable investment to the State. The gate receipts of an exposition depends very largely on its location-the nearer the center of the State and the center of the greatest central city of the State it can be placed, the greater will be the attendance and gate receipts.

The State of Indiana is fortunately the owner of eight acres of ground in the very center of the city, at the very point best adapted to the location of a Centennial Building. The main building should be so constructed that it would be ornamental and a model of architecture in itself, and at the same time contain a permanent exelectricity, geology, fisheries, etc. The buildings for the display of manufacturing machinery, implements, agriculture, horticulture, floriculture, etc., would be temporary and inexpensive, and be removed at the end of the exposition. The permanent building and the exhibits therein would be ermanent, and a sufficient charge made for admission after the main exposition closes to meet the expenses of mainte-nance. This will be an economical and credtable enterprise for the State, in which no money will be wasted, and should commend itself to the people of the State and to the next General Assembly, which will be asked to inaugurate the plans. What will the State accomplish by it? First, she will have taken a step in advance of her sister States n the building of and concentrating the best works in art, education and literature. Second, she will build up and foster among the masses of the people a love for art with ts refining influence, and stimulate a pride n the great accomplishments of the pe Third, she will advertise the material and skilled development of her resources to the people of the world in a manner and to an extent that could not be accomplished in a century by any other method. Fourth, this Centennial Building and the exhibits contained therein would be an attraction to every visitor to America from foreign countries that would make us the center of attraction, as well as the center of popula-tion. The conventions of our leading political parties should declare for it, and our people should unanimously favor it."

Centennial Commission's Atlanta Trip A bulletin has been issued by the Indiana Centennial Commission, announcing the arrangements for the trip to the Atlanta exposition, Nov. 15. On that date the train will leave the Union Station over the P., C., C. & St. L., at 6 o'clock in the evening. The train will be made up of Pullman sleepers and buffet cars. Returning, the train will leave Atlanta. Thursday, Nov. 21, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The fare for the round trip from Indianapolis, will be $20.25. BRIGHTWOOD IS ALIVE

ELECTRIC LIGHTS WILL FOLLOW THE NEW WATER WORKS.

Discovery that Street-Car Company Has a Perpetual Franchise to Furnish Electric Lights.

The present Town Board of Brightwood looks with favor upon the idea of municipal control in the matter of electric light and water works plants. In the face of no little opposition, arrangements were perfected some time ago for the construction and ownership of a water works plant by the town. The work of construction was begun early last spring and completed in July. Enough consumers have been secured in the intervening four months to give assurance of the success of the enterprise. Mr. Charles Meadows, member of the board and chairman of the subcommittee having in charge the management of the water works, states that from present indications during the first year. in that undertaking, the board has lately turned its attention to the subject of street considerable favor. Under its terms the parties submitting the same were to construct and operate the plant for a term of five years, at the end of which period the town was to have the option of purchasing the plant outright. It was proposed to furnish street lamps at a fair price and private consumers were to be dealt with liberally. The board was inclined to accept the offer, but when the question of a franchise came to be discussed the board discovered that under the terms of the franchise granted the Citizens' Street-railroad Company six years ago, permitting it to operate its lines within the corporation limits the company was also accorded the privilege of furnishing electric lights to the town. This franchise purports to be perpetual. The street car company has taken no steps towards carrying out this part of the provisions of the franchise Members of the board asserted that the former board had no power to create a per-

A Y. M. C. A. RAILROAD HOME. Big Four Lends Encouragement t

Plan at Brightwood. Ten years ago the Big Four Rallway Company built a home for the men employed in the Brightwood shops, and the trainmen running on the Indianapolis & St. Louis division of its road. This has always been known as the Railroaders' Home. At the outset the home was operated by the company itself, but the enterprise was a financial failure, and after several years' trial it was abandoned. The building was leased to other parties, who conducted a boarding house. The trainmen ceased to lend their patronage. A few months ago Secretary Stacey, of the State committee of the Y. M. C. A induced the officials of the Big Four to re pair and refurnish the building for a rail-road branch of the Y. M. C. A. This required a large outlay on the part of the company. The building was renovated and completely furnished ready for occupancy before being turned over to the committee. In addition to the use of the building the company has agreed to contribute $65 a month towards the running expenses. The building has been repainted in the familiar colors of the Big Four passenger coaches (bright orange), and is equipped throughout with all conveniences that go to make a good home. There is a restaurant, barber shop, bath rooms, bedrooms, etc. It is stated to be the most finely equipped home this side of Philadelphia. The Y. M. C. A. plan will be adopte in conducting the home. General Secretary Theodore Getchell, formerly in charge of the C. & O. Railroad Home at Handley, W. Va., has assumed the management of the work. Secretary Getchell reports that 124 men have become members since the home was opened three weeks ago. states the prospects are encouraging. Reductions in the costs of accommodation are made to members, and many of the trainmen running into Brightwood from Mattoon and Beliefontaine have expresse their intentions of becoming members and making their headquarters at the home. Brightwood people seem to regard the en-terprise with favor, and are disposed to encourage the idea.

Big Four Shop Management. Since the last strike in the Big Four shops, at Brightwood, it is stated that the company has been disposed to deal rigidly with its employes. The assertion is made that the shops are frequently closed down for a half day, or a day at a time, and that this entails needless hardship upon the workmen. Many of them are discontented under this state of affairs, but say the company has the upper hand and they dare notprotest against what they regard as unfair treatment. On the part of the management of the shops it is claimed that the expenses of operation are limited to a certain sum and it is necessary to close down occasionally in order to keep within the monthly allowance. On last Thursday the shops were closed for the afternoon on the plea that it was the last day of the month and expenses had to be reduced. When the statement is made that the five hundred employes earn on an average 20 cents an hour, it will be seen that the pay of the entire force for four hours amounts to quite a sum-$400.

NEW FEDERAL BUILDING.

Board of Trade Committee Preparing a Bill for Congress.

The committee from the Indianapolis Board of Trade, of which E. B. Martindale is at the head and Postmaster Sahm is member, is busily engaged in the preparation of the federal building appropriation bill, which is to be presented to Congress during the winter session. The committee has hopes of getting the measure through. It is proposed to ask for an appropriation of $2,000,000 to erect a government building Men's Christian Association occurs in that of massive proportions.

the new building should go up. Business men are divided on the question. Some contend that it should be erected north of Ohio street and others want it on the South Side. Postmaster Sahm says the governside. Postmaster sand on the present site. In order to erect a pretentious building where the present one stands it would cessary to either put up a temporal ructure for the accommodation of the postoffice business or rent extensive quarters. This, the postmaster says, would entail an enormous expense. Mr. Sahm thinks if the appropriation is made the government will build on other ground and sell the present site. Peal estate man estimate the present site. ent site. Real estate men estimate that the old building and the ground on which it stands would bring a half million dollars.

The Board of Trade committee has in mind a building somewhat on the style of the Statehouse. It would have to be very large to accommodate the business of the the United States pension office and the in-ternal revenue office, which is now located at Lawrenceburg.

ALL FOR ONE DOLLAR.

A Fine Lecture Course for the Free Kindergarten's Benefit.

A fine lecture course will be given this season for the benefit of the Free Kindergarten and Children's Aid Society. It is to be under the auspices of the Monteflore Society and all the entertainments will be given at Tomlinson's Hall. There are to be eight entertainments, all for $1, which makes each one twelve and a half cents. The course includes a concert by the Max Bendix quartet. Mr. Bendix was the star violinist at two of the May festivals. The second will be a lecture by Maurice Thompson, the distinguished writer. The third is a lecture by Dr. Emil Hirsch, the leading rabbi of America: the next, a reading by Eugene Field. On ordinary occasions it costs a dollar to hear Mr. Field alone. Dr. Thomas Dixon, who is one of the leading pulpit orators of New York city, will lecture on "Backbone." There will be a concert by the Franz Wilczek Concert Company. Mr. Wilczek is another of the May festival artists, and with him will be Mrs. Lizzie Northrup, formerly of this the plant will prove nearly self-supporting city, who is a fine soprano. THANKSGIVING NIGHT DINNER.

Local Republican Clubs Will Have

Their Usual Banquet.

There was a meeting at the Marion Club last evening of the representatives of eleven Republican clubs of the city to consider the giving of a banquet on the evening of Thanksgiving. The plan met with general approval. Warwick H. Ripley presided at the meeting and A. M. Glossbrenner was secretary. It is the intention to make the affair one of importance, and a number of good and well-known speakers will be invited to be present. A committee of five will be chosen by Mr. Ripley to make the arrangements for the affair.

Y. W. C. A. and Branch.

The members of the Y. W. C. A. will not talk regarding what is to be done with the contract which the association has with Branch, whose wife committed suicide at the Hotel English. One man ordered payment stopped on a check for $10 which he gave Mrs. Garland, thinking she was an Indianapolis woman, and being told the money was for the association. A number of checks have been cashed. Yesterday certain members of the association held a consultation with attorneys, after which the following notice signed by Mrs. F. F. Mc-Crea and Mrs. R. W. Furnis was made "By reason of the recent occurrences at the English Hotel in this city, in which Mr. Branch, of the Chicago Lyceum Bureau was very intimately connected, and on accoun of the action of certain agents of his, who were selling tickets for an entertainment which we propose to give at the Y. M. C. A Hall, for the benefit of the Young Women' ember, 1895, all persons are hereby warned not to purchase any ticket for said entertainment unless upon written authority, produced by any person purporting to be an agent for the sale of such tickets, and said written authority signed by Mrs. F. F. Mc-Crea, and duly acknowledged before notary public. This notice is for no other purpose than for the protection of the public as well as ourselves against any misrepresenta-
